Madison, Wis., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—Madison is all gone over to the football craze today. Special trains are bringing crowds of enthusiasts from St. Paul and Minneapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee and other points. They began coming in early this morning and before noon the streets, hotels and cafes were crowded.

Attendance Over 15,000
The attendance at the game will probably overreach the estimate of 15,000.

The weather is cloudy with a light wind, and cold enough to suit the players and make heavy wraps necessary for the spectators.

The Minnesotans brought down a big bunch of money which they wanted to place at even terms, but could find no takers.

Before noon they were offering odds of 5 to 4 but the Wisconsin backers wanted better odds and all the money wagered before noon probably did not exceed one thousand dollars.

Mueller Not in the Game

Minnesota did not put Mueller in the game. At a conference this forenoon Prof. Jones told Prof. Slichter that Minnesota would not play the big guard. There was talk on both sides of evidence against other players, but all of these were passed over and Mueller and Schreiber are the only men barred. Strathern takes Mueller's place for Minnesota and Westcott played guard for Wisconsin in place of Schreiber.

SETH LOW VISITS

WITH ROOSEVELT

Mayor-Elect of New York Will Be the Guest of President Roosevelt Until This Afternoon.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—Mayor Elect Seth Low, accompanied by his son, arrived in Washington at 6:20 last evening and was met at the train by Secretary Cortelyou. He was driven directly to the White House where he will be the guest of President Roosevelt until tonight. He declined to discuss the object of his visit to Washington and would not say whether he had considered Col. Partridge in connection with the police commissionership.

GATHMANN GUN

FAILS TO WORK

New Explosive Fired from Army Gun Does Terrible Execution—Would Sink Any Vessel.

New York, Nov. 16.—Gathmann's dynamite shell, fired from his big eighteen inch rifle, the largest gun in the world, proved itself a disastrous failure at Sandy Hook yesterday afternoon, barely denting the big armor plate against which it was fired at point blank range.

The ordinary army twelve-inch rifle, with an armor-piercing shell filled with a small charge of high explosive, scored an extraordinary success, however, and produced results which will startle the great naval countries of the world and which perhaps may revolutionize naval architecture.

The Gathmann projectile, which its inventor claimed would reduce an armor plate to powder, failed to make any serious impression on a target made to represent the side of a modern battleship of the first class. The army rifle, however, not only fired a shell completely through the armor plate, but exploded the shell on the inside, wrecking the target and absolutely destroying the construction representing the cofferdam structure of the modern battleship.

HILL LINES ARE

NOW ORGANIZED

Head of the Great Northern Railroad Elected President.

HE IS IN CONTROL

J. P. Morgan, It Is Claimed, Holds the Balance of Power in Combine.

WILL BE NO CHANGES

New York, Nov. 16.—The organization of the Northern Securities company, which had been accomplished in part on Thursday by the election of directors and of James J. Hill as president, was completed today by the election of the remaining officers and the formation of the executive committee.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the new company the executive committee was chosen, to consist of James J. Hill, as President, and of John S. Kennedy, George F. Baker, D. Willis James, E. H. Harriman, and W. P. Clough. Of these men Messrs. Kennedy and Clough may be classed as representatives of the Hill interests, while Messrs. Baker and James represent the Northern Pacific and Morgan interests, with Mr. Harriman as the representative of the Union Pacific.

The following officers were also elected: Vice President—John S. Kennedy. Second Vice President—George F. Baker. Third Vice President—D. Willis James. Fourth Vice President—W. P. Clough. Secretary and Treasurer—E. T. Nichols.

General Counsel—W. P. Clough. These men are nearly all representatives of the Hill interests.

It has been definitely decided that Darius Miller, at present Second Vice President and General Traffic Manager of the Great Northern, will be the General Traffic Director for the Northern group of roads, while John S. Stubbs at present Third Vice President of the Southern Pacific company will hold the same position with regard to the southern roads.

Regarding the purpose of the new company, it may be stated that it will not be merely a security holding company, but that its directors and officers will exercise an active supervision over the policies of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific.

The organization of these two roads will be preserved but their policy will be dictated by the controlling company. There will be no changes among the officers of the two roads.

BIG STORM SWEEPS

THE GREAT LAKES

Twenty-Five Ships Are More or Less Wrecked—Drives All Vessels to Shore for Shelter.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 16.—For the past three days the worst gale of the season has swept the lakes from the northwest and last night there were few ships left out on the lakes to face the storm. So complete was the embargo placed on commerce that from every point where vessels seek shelter came lists containing from twenty to sixty names, and a large number of boats sought refuge from the gale behind islands and in places where there names could not be obtained.

Not all of the boats were able to find shelter, however. A list of over twenty-five losses, due directly to the storm, has been reported from various points on the lakes, and vesselmen feared that all of the shipwrecks had not yet been learned. No loss of life has attended the disasters reported. With singular unanimity the crews of the several ships in trouble have left them to their fate with two or three exceptions.

The loss of life attending the wreck of the schooner Jupiter earlier in the season taught sailors that there is not much chance of safety left on the old time craft when they get in trouble, and the result has been that more derelicts have been reported on the lakes than in many years.

F. GRUNERT & CO.

OF MONROE, FAIL

Monroe, Wis., Nov. 16.—The big cheese firm of Ferdinand, Grunert & Co. of this city has made a voluntary assignment.

The failure was brought about by the demands of Chicago banks for the payment of between $20,000 and $40,000 in notes held against the Grunert concern. The failure of the Chicago Cheese company last Tuesday involved the Grunert company by reason of notes given in the sum of $200,000, which are still out. This sum the Grunert firm is still unable to meet.

Mr. Grunert is one of the best known cheese men in the country and the suspension of the firm, it is thought, will have an unfavorable effect on the cheese industry in this section. He will continue in business.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE TO STUMP STATE

Unique Scheme of the Chief Executive to Make an Early Renomination Campaign.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 16.—An appreciable stir was raised among politicians today by a story brought in from Madison by one who has been visiting there.

It is stated that Governor LaFollette will take a new departure in the way of a political campaign. It is the intention of the governor, according to this story, to make a personal campaign, coming several months prior to the state convention next year. The governor will on this tour visit every section of the state and address the people on questions at issue between himself and the stalwart wing of the party.

Such a course is unprecedented, but the governor and his friends maintain that it is excusable in that the situation in the state is unprecedented. Furthermore he believes that in this manner he can get in touch with the people and learn how they feel on the matter under dispute.

SHOT HIS WIFE AND KILLED HIMSELF

Eau Claire, Wis., Nov. 16.—Oscar Israel, aged 35 years, last night about 8:30 o'clock, at his home on Chipewa street, shot his wife through the shoulder with a revolver and then shot himself through the head. He died instantly. It is said that Israel fired two shots at his wife, one shot only inflicting as light wound on the head. He cause is supposed to have been temporary insanity brought on by dissolute habits.

Mrs. Israel is a daughter of Sergt. Lafayette Elliot of the police force. She has two daughters aged 3 and 1 years, and a son aged 6. Israel was a stationary engineer.

JOHN H. JOYCE IS RELEASED ON BAIL

Former Stoughton Bank Cashier's Relatives Furnish the Bonds to Secure His Freedom.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 16.—John H. Joyce left his jail with his bondsmen bank, Stoughton, Wis., who was arrested here Tuesday on the charge of embezzling $40,000 has been released on bonds. It is believed that he has left the city, although the officials here do not know of his whereabouts. Relatives from Wisconsin furnished the necessary bond, covering the amount of the alleged embezzlement. Joyce left his jail with his bondsmen in the afternoon and at night returned for his trunk and other effects.

OFFICE-SEEKERS WORRY ROOSEVELT

He Is Perplexed and Disappointed Over the Demands Made on Him for Vacant Positions.

Washington, Nov. 16.—President Roosevelt unbored some of his trials and tribulations on his cabinet yesterday morning. He told them of the troubles he had encountered and overcome in the appointment of men to federal positions. He told them of his opposition to the efforts of certain senators to unload undesirable candidates upon the chief executive and the means which he employed to prevent them doing so. He told them, moreover, that when he had selected the best man he was nearly always bombarded with telegrams and letters assuring him that he had made a mistake. The president appeared to be perplexed and disappointed but assured the cabinet that he would continue to select the men whom he deemed to be the best qualified to fill the positions for which they are selected.

Miss Little Lutz, of Chicago, is expected tomorrow to visit her father, Peter Lutz who has charge of the stone cutting at the city hall.

RUHLIN SHOWS YELLOW STREAK

Intense Disgust of the Sports Gathered in San Francisco.

JEFFRIES IS GLAD

Nothing But Unstinted Praise for the Conduct of Champion During Fight.

WINS IN FIFTH ROUND

San Francisco, Nov. 16.—Fight followers awoke this morning supremely disgusted and hoping that the threat to prohibit boxing contests in this city, as a result of last night's Ruhlins-Jeffries fiasco, would be carried out. Mingled with this disgust is an intense feeling of execration for Ruhlins. Among the critics there is an almost unanimous opinion that he went into the ring for the sole purpose of securing the loser's end and to quit at the first opportunity.

That he was rather badly punished there is no doubt, but that there was danger of his being murdered, as his manager put it, none are willing to believe in the light of his quick recovery after the referee announced his decision, and the easy manner in which he left the ring.

For Jeffries there is nothing but unstinted praise. All agree that his every move showed a sincere desire to give the spectators all the fun for their money.

JEFFRIES WINS THE BATTLE

Champion Pugilist Defeats Ruhlins in the Fifth Round

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 16.—Pugilism got the worst blow in San Francisco as a result of the Jim Jeffries-Gus Ruhlins fiasco that could possibly have been given it. Ruhlins quit pure and simple and there can be no extenuation for either the part he played or the advice, or rather countenance, Manager Billy Madden gave when he to all intents laid down. So far as the claim goes that he was out or anywhere near it goes it is ridiculous on the face of it. When Ruhlins went to his corner at the end of the last round he had received a vigorous punching, but, judging by the rounds he had fought, it was reasonable to suppose that he could have gone on several more without getting the finishing touch. When he got to his seconds he was distressed somewhat. All through the last four rounds he acted as though he believed he had no chance and was merely on the scene to gather the loser's end as quickly as possible. He complained first to Referee Corbett in the second round and it looked like he was then ready to "lie down" after being jarred by a couple of stiff rights on his stomach and ribs. After the last round instead of getting ready for the gong he was carrying on an animated conversation with Madden. The latter appeared to be expostulating with him, but before the bell he sent Ruhlins out to shake Jeffries' hand and quit. It was as raw a piece of business as one could wish and Madden has sold another gold brick to the people who paid a fancy price to see his alleged prodigy perform. No one was more surprised at the outcome than Jeffries himself, who asserted that, while he had delivered one telling blow in the second round, he did not expect to win the victory so easily. Ruhlins' sole explanation of the outcome of the fight is that he received a chance blow which utterly disabled him and that Jeffries persisted in fighting him low. While Ruhlins will make no absolute charge of Jeffries having committed a foul, he intimates that he was unfairly handled and injured as a result. Ruhlins received the support of his seconds in this stand, who say that his

LONG ASKS FOR MANY NEW WARSHIPS; TWENTY-TWO MORE VESSELS WANTED

Annual Report of the Navy Department is Issued—Secretary Also Favors a Naval Reserve—Not Enough Men and Officers.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Secretary Long wants twenty-two additional war ships for the navy. In his annual report issued today he asks congress for that number of new vessels.

He recommends the construction of three first-class battle ships, three first-class armored cruisers, three gunboats of 1,000 tons trial displacement each, three gun boats of about 200 tons displacement for service in the Philippines, three picket boats of about 650 tons displacement, three steel sailing training ships of about 2,000 tons, one collier of 15,000 tons and four tug boats. In support of this recommendation the secretary says:

"The navy today is a far greater factor in our relations with the world than it was before the recent national expansion, which now includes Porto Rico, the Hawaiian Islands, the vast area of land and sea in the Philippines and our obligations to Cuba. If we are to have a navy at all it must be commensurate with these great extensions—greater in international even than in territorial importance. This necessarily involves the construction of more naval vessels, their manning, exercise and maintenance."

In order to provide a sufficient number of officers and men for the growing navy Secretary Long urges an increase of fifty lieutenants, 3,000 enlisted men and 750 marines. The secretary urges the establishment of a naval rendezvous and a naval reserve.

Secretary Long renews his recommendation for the revival of the office of vice admiral. He would also have the old title of "midshipman" substituted for "naval cadet" because it is "full of historic associations." He reports fifty-nine vessels in course of construction.

LECTURE ON COLOR WORK IN NATURE

Second Entertainment on the High School Lecture Course Given Last Evening.

The second entertainment on the High School lecture course was given in the auditorium of the High school last evening and was enjoyed by an immense audience which filled every seat on the main floor and in the gallery. The attraction was a stereoscopic lecture by Prof. William H. Dudley, who is connected with the University extension lecture department of the University of Chicago.

Prof. Dudley's lecture was on "Color Work in Nature" and it was illustrated by about sixty of the hand-drawn colored slides ever seen in this city. Flowers, fruits, insects and birds were shown in all of their beautiful coloring and Prof. Dudley gave a very interesting talk on the reasons for the various colorings. Many birds, such as the humming bird, the Baltimore oriole and the indigo bird have such widely different coloring in the male and female that they are sometimes thought to belong to different species.

The male is very brilliantly colored while the female wears a sober, quiet plumage. This is explained by the difference of their mission. The female must spend the most of her time at home sitting on her nest or plucking her little ones. A brilliant plumage would attract the attention of enemies but the quiet coat she wears harmonizes with the coloring of the limb where her nest rests and is a great protection to her.

In the species of birds where the male assumes the domestic duties he is clothed in quiet colors while his gad-about spouse is decked out like a country girl at a village fair. Darwin explains the brilliant coloring of the male and the sober hues of the female by the theory of sexual selection, claiming that when the males go wooing it is the most brightly decked ones who captivate the female fancy.

The plants with bright fruits and the birds, who keep the plants free from worms and find a reward in the fruit are an illustration of reciprocity in nature. Wherever a plant has a bright fruit it will be noticed that the seed is always protected by a hard case as in the raspberry or by a stone as in the cherry. Thus though the bird eats the fruit, the seed is not destroyed but is scattered abroad and sometimes carried to far distant countries. In the bird the plant finds one of its greatest agencies for distribution.

These are but a few of the instances which Prof. Dudley gave, all illustrating the principle of utility in nature and the fact that purposefulness is the law of life; nothing existing without some reason for it. Toward the end of the lecture Prof. Dudley showed a series of illustrations of such birds as the meadow lark, wood sparrow and thrush, which are not brilliantly colored but are sweet songsters. Prof. Dudley illustrated some of the songs of these birds by whistling their calls.

The lecture closed with a series of slides illustrating the triumph of colored photography. The slides illustrating his lecture proper were made from paintings on glass but the last pictures were colored photographs. They were remarkably excellent and included portraits of an old man and a young girl, flowers, a part of the flower garden in Lincoln park and some sunset scenes in Egypt.

Prof. Dudley was seriously handicapped last evening by the behavior of a large part of the audience, many of the young people being so restless and so interested in discussing the pictures among themselves that the noise was so great as to prevent many people from hearing the speaker.

Of course the course is planned primarily for the children but tickets are sold to other people also and even among the school children there are those who wish to hear the entertainment. Further than this the disorder was carried so far last evening that toward the latter part of the lecture it was grossly insulting to the speaker and it is a question whether the lecture course will be of much real benefit to the school children if they are permitted to transgress the rules of order and decency and show so little regard for the rights of others. A disorder, which begins in restlessness and mischievous carelessness, grows rapidly if unchecked and last evening it reached a point where the speaker was mocked openly when he gave the bird calls. Certainly no disrespect was intended but such thoughtlessness should not be permitted.

AMONG THE RAILROADS

The Ashland division men at Kaukauna are still talking restrictions for double heading and, while they feel encouraged at the reports large engines that they believe will aid them, they have received no word of an official character and hence are still agitating the subject. The trainmen are especially anxious to have this practice restricted, it being particularly dangerous and, trying to them, and while the engine men do not like it, they are more of the opinion that the large engines will be in service soon and the cause be removed.

The Milwaukee road is still having trouble with the great Chapin mine fill on the Superior division near Iron Mountain. This fill was caused by the settling of the surface due to the cave-in of the mine. Hundreds of tons of sand and gravel have been dumped into the fill to bring the track to grade, but as yet he work is not done. The road is pushing grade work in the iron country so as to be ready for a rush of business when ore shipments begin in the spring.

The Green Bay and Western road has just completed five new stalls to its roundhouse at the Fort Howard shops. The interior of the shops has been freshly whitewashed and in spick and span condition.

The Northwestern has just re-roofed the roundhouse at Green Bay and is re-roofing the coal shed.

It is reported that the Northwestern road will establish shops at Sheboygan to care for the work of the old Sheboygan and Princeton line, and that of the extension from Princeton to Marshfield.

Superintendent W. H. Whelan of the Northern Wisconsin division of the Northwestern, has made W. G. Scott watch inspector for the division at Marshfield.

The railroad man is an ever industrious hunter and now that the season has opened there are several parties from the various railroad centers in the woods.

LIVELY TIME IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Thirty-five or forty friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Decker gathered at their home on Milton avenue last evening and spent a delightful evening. An elaborate supper was served and was done ample justice to by the guests. A guessing contest was held and the prizes were won by Mrs. O. E. Smith and Mrs. J. Walker. Cinch was then taken up and the balance of the evening devoted to prize winning. Mrs. Fred Decker and W. T. Scofield won first prizes and Mrs. Charles Wright and Stokely Hutchinson the boobies. Wallace Cochran was awarded the "palm" as the champion story teller.

The Bower City Verein No. 31, gave their sixth annual banquet and dance at the West Side Odd Fellows hall last evening. The party was a grand success from start to finish. The banquet was one of the best ever served in Janesville and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The supper hours were from six to nine and the tables were filled the most of the time. The members of the Concordia society rendered some pleasing vocal selections during the evening under Prof. Thiele. The dancing began at 9:30 and was kept in full swing until early this morning.

Baldwin & Rehfeld's orchestra furnished the music and gave excellent satisfaction. During the evening a cake was raffled off and $6.40 realized. E. O. Smith held the lucky number. The party was a complete success both socially and financially and socially and the Verein have a good start on the sum necessary to purchase a new flag.

The Ladies' auxiliary of the B. of L. T. treated Miss Julia Hefferton to a tin shower at the brotherhood hall last evening in honor of her coming marriage to Harry Carroll. Amusements of various kinds were indulged in and an abundance of tinware bestowed upon the bride to be.

Miss Nellie Walsh entertained the members of a club at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Doveson on Locust street Thursday night. Miss Anna Burns and H. McMansters won the first prizes and the booby's went to Miss Dougherty and William Dougherty.

The Circuit Court.

The November term of the circuit court for Rock county will open Monday morning, November 18th. The bar calendar for the term is now out and is ready for distribution among the attorneys. Ninety-seven cases are on the calendar for trial. They consist of fifty-one jury cases, thirty-seven issues of fact for the court, six issues of law for the court, and three criminal cases. While there are a large number of cases listed for trial quite a number of them will not be tried at this term.

The Chicago Health Department reports an increase in the number of deaths from appendicitis. In 1898 one hundred and seventy-four cases resulted fatally, and in 1900 two hundred and thirty-three. There is no such preventive of appendicitis as Dr. Crane's Quaker Tonic Tablets, everywhere fifty cents.

THE RIGHT THING.

A New Catarrh Cure, Which is Rapidly Coming to the Front.

For several years Eucalyptol, Guaiacol and Hydrastin have been recognized as standard remedies for catarrhal troubles, but they have always been given separately and only very recently an ingenious chemist succeeded in combining them, together with other antiseptics in a pleasant, effective tablet.

Druggists sell the remedy under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and it has met with remarkable success in the cure of nasal catarrh, bronchial and throat catarrh and in catarrh of the stomach.

Mr. F. N. Benton whose address is care of Clark House, 1901 N. Y. says: "When I run against any thing that is good I like to tell people of it. I have been troubled with catarrh more or less for some time. Last winter more than ever. Tried several so-called cures but did not get any benefit from them. About six weeks ago I bought a 50 cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and am glad to say that they have done wonders for me and I do not hesitate to let all my friends know that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are the right thing."

Mr. Geo. J. Casanova of Hotel Griffin, West 9th street, New York City, writes: "I have commenced using Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and already they have given me better results than any catarrh cure I ever tried." A leading physician of Pittsburgh advises the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in preference to any other treatment for catarrh of the head, throat or stomach.

He claims they are far superior to inhalers, salves, lotions or powder, and are much more convenient and pleasant to take and are so harmless that little children take them with benefit as they contain no opiate, cocaine or any poisonous drugs.

All druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full size package and they are probably the safest and most reliable cure for any form of catarrh.

SUPPOSED DISEASES OF WOMEN.

Long stories could be told regarding the outcome of mistakes in diagnosis made by physicians in the matter of diseases of women. Stomach and bowel troubles, long standing chronic constipation, resulting finally in inflammation of the intestines, have been the cause of headaches, "blues," bearing down pains and irregularities more often than have derangement of the female system. The effect is lack of energy, a melancholy view of life and its affairs; headache; nausea upon rising in the morning. All symptoms easily to be mistaken for those caused by female diseases. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and Herb Laxative Compound gives instant relief. Sold by all druggists in 50 cent and $1.00 bottles, but never in bulk. We will be glad to send you a trial bottle and a very interesting little booklet on stomach troubles, if you will mention your symptoms. Pepsin Syrup Company, Monticello, Wis.

BADGER STATE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Janesville Ranks Fourteenth in the Number of Teachers Employed—Beloit Ahead of Us.

An educational report just issued by State Superintendent Harvey gives some interesting statistics concerning the schools of the state, from which some surprising comparisons may be made. For instance, this city ranks fourteenth in the state in the number of teachers employed in the public schools. Milwaukee comes first with 583 teachers and even Beloit exceeds Janesville by two teachers, Beloit having sixty-two and Janesville sixty. There are six cities in this state which have a force of over 100 teachers, they being Milwaukee, 583; Superior, 166; La Crosse, 129; Racine, 128; Oshkosh, 126; and Sheboygan, 116. The other cities which rank above Janesville are Eau Claire, 99; Appleton, 78; Green Bay, 77; Madison, 75; Marinette, 70; Wausau, 70; Beloit, 62.

In spite of this fact the Janesville High school ranks away up among the leaders and only those cities which have two or three High schools have a greater number of High school teachers. The loss in numbers comes in the grades and is due largely to the fact that this city has no kindergartens. This is certainly responsible for the difference between Beloit and this city, for the Beloit High school only has nine teachers as against a faculty of fifteen in this city. Beloit has a large force of kindergarten teachers which raises her to the place above Janesville in the schools of the state considered from the basis of the teaching forces.

It is a peculiar fact that Beloit and Janesville find the greatest need in our public schools at opposite ends of the system and that each city can copy from the other with profit. Beloit is agitating an advance for its High school, the special object in view just now being a manual training department. Those who are especially interested in starting the movement find their inspiration in the excellent department in the Janesville High school and its successful record and they are holding it up to the people of Beloit as a model. The manual training is one of the "next things" which Beloit desires.

In the meantime the people of Janesville are looking with envious eyes at Beloit's excellent kindergarten system, the flower of its public school system and while that city is looking to this for inspiration at one end of the ladder of learning, this city can demand an equivalent service by utilizing the kindergartens of Beloit as an ambition to be attained as soon as possible. It is an instance of educational reciprocity and while Beloit is striving for some of the High school facilities which Janesville already has, this city is busy with the endeavor to secure a kindergarten system such as Beloit is now favored with.

Catarrh

The cause exists in the blood, in what causes inflammation of the mucous membrane.

It is therefore impossible to cure the disease by local applications.

It is positively dangerous to neglect it, because it always affects the stomach and deranges the general health, and is likely to develop into consumption.

Many have been radically and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cleanses the blood and has a peculiar alternative and tonic effect. R. Long, California Junction, Iowa, writes: "I had catarrh three years, lost my appetite and could not sleep. My head pained me and I felt bad all over. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and now have a good appetite, sleep well, and have no symptoms of catarrh."

SURGICAL OPERATIONS

Many of Them Unnecessary. Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Medicine Have Saved Many Women From the Surgeon's Knife.

Hospitals in our great cities are sad places to visit. Three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow-white beds are women and girls.

Why should this be the case? Because they have neglected themselves.

Every one of these patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at the left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back. All these things are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb.

What a terrifying thought! These poor souls are lying there on those hospital beds awaiting a fearful operation.

Do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an examination and possible operation. Build up the female system, cure the derangements which have signified themselves by danger signals, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of women from the hospital. Read the letter here published with the full consent of the writer, and see how she escaped the knife by a faithful reliance on Mrs. Pinkham's advice and treatment by her medicines.

If in doubt write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for free advice; her experience covers twenty years.

Here is Proof, Undeniable Proof, That Many Operations May Be Avoided.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—As I am a great sufferer of female trouble I thought I would write to you to see if you thought there was any positive help for me. I am very sore through my bowels, especially over the womb, and on the left side low down I will be taken with a dull sore pain, and in an hour will be so sore that I cannot move myself, and will have to be poulticed, and will be unable to walk for two or three weeks. I have a bad discharge at times. The doctor says I will have to go through an operation and have the left ovary removed. If you can help me let me hear from you soon."—Mrs. M. G. SHIPLEY, Upson, Wis. (Nov. 12, 1900.)

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—When I wrote to you last fall in regard to my health, death would have been a welcome visitor to me, but I followed your advice and am now well. I had tried everything I could hear of, went to every doctor far and near, spent a great deal of money and received no benefit. At the time I wrote you I was saving up money to go to Chicago to have an operation upon the womb and ovaries which the doctor said unless I had I would die, but thanks to your remedies, I avoided this. I have taken eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, two of your Blood Purifier, and used four packages of Sanative, and am a well woman. I advise every woman suffering as I did to take Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies."—Mrs. M. G. SHIPLEY, Upson, Wis. (March 20, 1901.)

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find the above testimonial letters are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

TOO CRITICAL.

The small fry who frothed at the mouth and grew red in the face while declaiming against President McKinley, because, it is alleged, he touched his lips to a glass of wine at the banquet given in honor of the premier of Canada are now all torn up over the fact of President Roosevelt shaking hands with a colored man. A dog can bark at the moon, and with about as much reason as there is in the small bore critics who criticised the dead president on the canteen question and because he is alleged to have been courteous to the representative of Canada, and who are criticising our present worthy president because he is a gentleman. —Ashland Press.

THE SACRED MEMORY.

"Where's my mother?"

The bright eyes of the patient little sufferer opened wide and gazed intently into the face of the faithful nurse, as she bent over him and said:

"Your mother has just stepped out. She will be back in a moment. Did you want her?"

"Yes, I want her to help me say a little prayer," and then the lids drooped, the little hands relaxed, a faint sigh, a last gasp for breath, and in the quiet of the early morning, the tired spirit stole away to present before the throne of the eternal city the petition that filled the mind and comforted the heart of the lad as he stood on the narrow margin that separates the here and now from the great hereafter.

Harold was ten years old, a bright and winsome boy, full of life, yet full of thoughtful consideration, he filled the house with sunshine, and his presence was the crowning happiness in the home.

The only boy, the mother's heart went out to him with all the wealth of a mother's love, while the father found in him a companion, and a constant source of solicitude and fatherly care.

The new home that was preparing, and all the plans that stretched out into the years, took the boy into account, and the development of mind and heart gave promise of rich fulfillment, without a cloud to intervene. The home was a happy home, and the boy was a generous contributor. Thoughtful, helpful, mature beyond his years, he was more than a child, filling a large place in the little family circle.

When the hand of disease was laid upon him a few weeks ago, it came like a shock to the home, and when its rapid development baffled the best skill that money could secure, the character of the boy stood out in strong relief, and with a thoughtful "Thank you" for every attention, and a patience that marked the hero, he put up a gallant fight, and went down before the blast, with the thought of God and mother holding him steady to the last.

This little sketch from real life, the fragment of a day's sad history in one home is being repeated under varying conditions, but with the same tragic result, in thousands of homes, every hour of every day in the year. Mothers go about the streets, bravely bearing the burdens of great sorrow, and heroically bearing them alone, unless supported by a stronger arm than human sympathy has ever been able to supply.

The tragedy of life is always more real than the comedy, and every home, as well as every heart, is sooner or later the battleground.

The last messenger is not a respecter of persons, and his grim presence is seldom welcomed.

When he enters the home, unbidden plans are frustrated, hopes blighted, and the whole current of life changed. If the mother happens to be the victim, the house becomes a sepulchre. The children tread lightly, and wander about the place where a mother's presence was like a ray of sunshine, while the husband and tempts to take up the burden, et cetera, father, gazed and bewildered, attempts to take up the burden, and care for the motherless brood.

If the father drops out of the ranks it means changed conditions, and new and trying experiences. The income frequently stops, and added care and responsibility comes to the mother already burdened, and with sorrowing heart, yet with brave and steady purpose, she plans to keep the little flock together, and prepare them as best she may for the work of life.

If one of the children is called and the family circle is broken for the first time, the keen edge of sorrow lays bare the heart, and the home is transformed from scenes of happiness to a house of bitter mourning.

It is well for humanity that time heals the wounds that death creates, and while the scars are left, the keen edge of sorrow becomes a halcyon memory, frequently made bright by the panorama of other years that passes before the mental vision. Some of these pictures are so indelibly stamped upon the memory that time never effaces them. They are not only sacred but their impress is so potent that their influence is like an anchor to the soul, holding it steady in the storm and turmoil of life.

A telegram calls home the boy who for a year has been out in the world for himself. Every week, on a certain day, the mother's letter has come to him, bearing messages of love and motherly solicitation.

He missed the letter last week and now the yellow message trembles in his hand, as he reads the startling contents: "Mother sick; come at once."

The first train finds him speeding back to the old home, and he lives over again the scenes of happy childhood, and calls back the thoughtful, whom he has never half appreciated, until he was out in life for himself. He had planned to go home at Christmas time and tell her how much he loved her, and how thoughtless he had been of her comfort and happiness.

He had never dreamed that she could be sick, and he would not believe now that it was anything serious, but there was no comfort in the short message, and it seemed to him that the train never moved so slow. When the little station is announced, familiar objects fail to interest him, and he is hurried away to the bedside of a mother who had prayed so earnestly that she might live till her boy got home, and as she held him in close embrace, and said in faltering voice:

"I'm going to leave you, Johnnie, but your mother's God will be with you, and I shall look for you by and by," and then she was gone.

But what about the boy? He stands for the first time in the presence of a great sorrow. Dazed, bewildered, he cannot realize the sad loss that has come to him. He stands by the casket and looks into the face that never before refused to answer with a smile, and then it comes to him for the first time that his mother has gone out of his life forever.

He goes back to his work with heavy heart. The experience of a day has added maturity to his life, and his employer recognizes in the light hearted boy of yesterday, the young man weighed down with sorrow and crushed with grief. He does not attempt to comfort him by words of pity, but feeling keen sympathy for him, treats him kindly, and loads him with responsibility and increased care, knowing that active mind and busy hand is the only remedy but time that can help him to bear the great loss that has come into his life.

The years go by, but that last scene in the old home lingers as a sacred memory, which time never effaces or mingles.

The last words of the mother have influenced the life of the man and the influence has always been for good. He has never been able to explain why that sad experience came to him back in the years of his boyhood, but he has thanked God a great many times for a mother whose life was a benediction, and whose last message had been like an anchor to his soul through all the years of a busy and perplexing life.

The why and the how of these changing experiences, are always shrouded in mystery. Life is so complex, and full of the unexpected, that we are never prepared for the tragedies. When the clouds are rolled away and clearer vision from the shores of the other country lights up the pathway, then, and not till then, will weak humanity understand the problems that were so perplexing.

This is the transient. The life beyond the eternal. One is brief, the other unending. The boy with the prayer on his lip, and the thought of God and mother in his heart, lingers close by the throne of the Eternal City, and as the years go by, there will come to the home so full of sorrow today, the comforting thought that one of the jewels is safely housed, and to the bitter sorrow will succeed a hallowed memory.

IF NOT, WHY NOT?

If it pays to advertise, why not advertise?

If you can't keep warm in November without coal, why not have the coal?

If it requires money to buy it and you can't afford it, why not cut off a luxury here and there?

If your wife belongs to a club, and you have to skimp around for a six o'clock lunch, why not be good natured about it? Your wife will be your helpmeet after the club expires.

If supper is late and you can't get down to the lodge in time for the first act, why not surprise your wife by spending an evening at home? It may astonish her, but she will survive.

If your business is good, or work is plenty, why not save a little money? It will come handy for a rainy day, and wet weather is the rule and not the exception after you get over on the shady side of life.

If the weather should be pleasant tomorrow, why not surprise your wife and the preacher by going to church? Your wife won't faint away, and the minister will recover from embarrassment by the time the collection is taken.

There are lots of things that we fail to do that would contribute to the happiness of the home and the welfare of society, that are neglected, because the simple question is overlooked: "If not, why not?"

and has exhausted his vocabulary. If the other boy has said, the usual reply is "I don't have to." The organ seems to have adopted the policy of the administration, but lacks diplomacy. "Don't get gay," there may be a hereafter.

Miss Goggin and Miss Haley of Chicago, the teachers who gained national notoriety by the tax war on corporations, are the promoters of a new paper that will include on its editorial staff eighteen teachers. The paper will be known as the "Teachers' Federation Bulletin." One object of the paper is to convince Chicago people that the editorial force, at least, know how to spell. As they will use typewriters, specimens of penmanship will not be in evidence.

PRESS COMMENT.

Grant County Herald: No man has ever heard Gov. La Follette say night against the attack on Senator Spooner made by the governor's appointee, Mr. Haugen, in a carefully prepared speech.

Eau Claire Leader: The army is to be equipped with tooth carpenters and corn doctors. After this they can go for the enemy "tooth and toenail."

Milwaukee Sentinel: Many hunters are after big game in the northern woods, but much of it is likely to be about the size of a man.

Milwaukee Journal: Why is it, that in the season for hunting accidents, no one ever shoots a game warden?

Racine Journal: People are not, it is true, lined up La Follette and anti-La Follette. Nothing of the sort. But they are lined up in demanding every public measure shall be freely discussed without restriction. If the governor doesn't believe this way, so much the worse for the governor.

Baraboo News: "Refor is a humbug," said Gov. Scofield in 1897. Yes, as practiced by some people. It was an awful thing to frank a cow, but not quite so bad, perhaps, to accept the privileges of a whole train. Scofield finally paid full rates on the cow, but will La Follette ever make up the deficiency on that train?

La Crosse Republican and Leader: The National Bankers' association and the Milwaukee preachers are at variance about the future of that much advertised municipality. The people will probably continue to deposit their surplus cash in the banks.

Evening Wisconsin: If there is anything in the reported discovery of a way by which light can be derived from decayed beef, perhaps the public might be able to throw some light on the embalmed beef scandal.

Delavan Republican: If all the old-time republican leaders are wrong in the present controversy, how did it so often happen that they were right in times past, when they led a harmonious party to battle and to victory? Let the voter think carefully before determining to quit old and tried men and principles to follow an orator and a brass band.

ITALY FURNISHES MOST IMMIGRANTS

An Increase of 38 Per Cent; Three Times as Many as From All Other Nations.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The annual report of the commissioner of immigration, Powderly, is published today. He discusses the dangers arising from the unchecked and undesired introduction into the body politic of an element, unassimilated and in many cases, unamenable. He says: Congress must enact suitable legislation for the purpose of distributing the alien population with some reference to the industrial law of supply and demand. He recommends the exclusion of prostitutes.

The report shows an increase of thirty-six per cent in the Italian immigration over last year, or three times as much as from all other nations of the world.

NORTH AND SOUTH SQUARING FOR BATTLE IN 1861.Generals Who Took the Helm After Blood Had Been Spilled—The Coming of Farragut—What Led to Shiloh—Building Ironclads.

(Copyright, 1901, by G. L. Kilmer.)

THIS time forty years ago Union and Confederate armies were mustering on the border and sharpening swords for the clash of arms to come in 1862. When the clash came, it was dramatic, bloody and for the field involved decisive. In the fall of 1861 movements of troops and ships were begun which ended in the battles of Mill Springs, Kentucky; Roanoke Island, North Carolina; Forts Henry and Donelson, Tennessee; New Orleans; Pea Ridge, Arkansas, and Shiloh in January, February, March and April, 1862.

The generals to whom the north and south looked for speedy and brilliant victories forty years ago were George B. McClellan and Albert Sidney Johnston. Second to McClellan in the north was Don Carlos Buell, who led the Federal forces in the west, and second in point of prominence in rank to Albert Sidney Johnston, though not subordinate to him, was Joseph E. Johnston. McClellan as general in chief directed the army and navy which under Burnside and Commodore Goldsborough captured the coast of North Carolina, the army and navy under Ben Butler and Farragut which in April opened up the lower Mississippi to the Federal fleet and in person conducted the operations of the Army of the Potomac in Virginia.

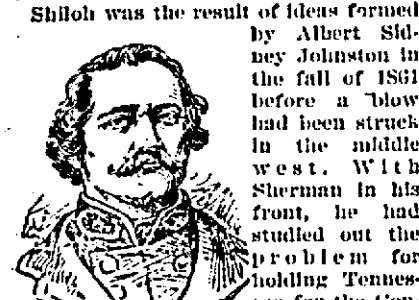

It was the genius of Albert Sidney Johnston, a New Englander by birth, which inspired the operations in Kentucky and Tennessee, ending in the battles at Mill Springs, Donelson and Shiloh, during the first three months of 1862. Johnston was in California at the outbreak of the war and did not reach Richmond until September, 1861, after the battles of Bull Run, in Virginia, and Wilson's Creek, in Missouri. Joe Johnston, as he was familiarly called, then led the Confederate forces directly opposing McClellan on the Potomac line, and Albert Sidney was sent west to hold for the south as much of Kentucky as he could get a firm grip on and the whole of Tennessee at all hazards. Taking his stand at Bowling Green, Ky., Johnston gathered around him all the Confederate troops in the west and attempted to keep the Federal army from marching south of that point. He appealed to the government at Richmond for more troops, saying that with 20,000 men he could not hold his ground when the enemy had the Ohio, Cumberland and Tennessee rivers open to their transports and fighting ships on either flank of his territory.

GENERAL GEORGE B.
MCCLELLAN, U. S. A.

In the early fall of 1861 Sherman was at the head of the army opposed to Johnston, but he was succeeded in November by Buell, who planned a sweeping movement to the south. With his headquarters at Louisville, Buell gathered a large army and amused the Confederates at Bowling Green in the interior and Columbus on the Mississippi until flanking columns sailed up the Tennessee and Cumberland, forcing Johnston to abandon his front line. Meanwhile General George H. Thomas had defeated a force of Confederates at Mill Springs and cleared the state of Kentucky of all organized Confederates.

Neither Buell nor Johnston took part in the operations at Forts Donelson and Henry. Grant led the Federals against Donelson, and when that stronghold fell early in February Johnston's plans of the previous fall were upset and his predictions verified. The Confederates were in a box in north central Tennessee. He sent Buell to head off Grant before Donelson and with the remainder of his army tried to hold on to Nashville, but failing in that retreated to Corinth, Miss., a move which finally brought about the battle of Shiloh, where Johnston fell and all his plans came to nothing.

Shiloh was the result of ideas formed by Albert Sidney Johnston in the fall of 1861 before a blow had been struck in the middle west. With Sherman in his front, he had studied out the problem for holding Tennessee for the Confederacy, but on the morning of April 4, 1862, Johnston's army was surprised by the Federal troops slow to come forward and the enemy marshaling a great host in Kentucky to overrun the territory he glanced ahead and settled upon the vicinity of Corinth as the point where the decisive battle must be fought. The placing of his army there after the fall of Buckner and Donelson in February and the loss of Nashville was not a simple expedient to gain time for a breath, but the working out of a broad plan.

Johnston was an aggressive soldier as well as a strategist and while confronting Sherman in November had so alarmed "Uncle Billy" that he demanded 200,000 men, for he said that if Johnston took the notion to march on Louisville no power then in the field could stop him.

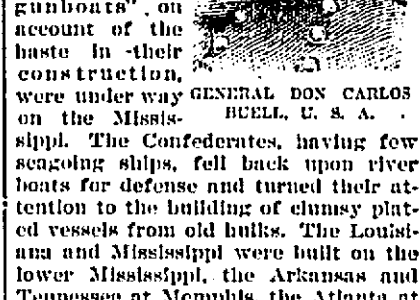

Burnside's Roanoke expedition was planned by himself and approved by McClellan in October, 1861, and the rest of the year was taken up in getting together the troops and vessels. All the soldiers were selected from the seaboard and were men used to the sea, the most of them being accustomed also to the use of mechanical tools. River barges and propellers were overhauled and converted into gunboats, with parapets of sandbags and hay bales to protect the guns. River passenger steamers came into service for transporting Burnside's fighting force of 15,000 men, organized into the divisions under Generals J. G. Foster, Jesse L. Reno and J. G. Parke, which ultimately formed the Ninth corps of the Army of the Potomac and the West. After numerous delays the flotilla sailed early in January under sealed orders, which were opened at sea, and the fate of Roanoke Island as well as the neighboring coast was settled by several vigorous blows in midwinter.

Up to November, 1861, the Federal government had done nothing toward seizing the key to the situation in the west, the Mississippi outlet at New Orleans. During the summer Captain D. D. Porter had cruised in the Gulf off New Orleans with the Powhatan and had picked up information as to what the enemy was doing behind the scenes. The Confederates were vigorously putting the forts in order for defense and had several ironclad rams under construction at New Orleans and Memphis.

Captain Porter sailed north in the fall and, reaching Washington, laid the case before the president, who immediately said, "Let's go and see McClellan." After a short consultation in which the secretary of the navy took part Lincoln, addressing McClellan and Porter, said, "We will leave this in the hands of you two gentlemen." The matter was settled at once, and Farragut was summoned from his home on the Hudson to take command of the naval end of the expedition. The fighting vessels of the fleet were to mount at least 200 guns and be augmented by a fleet of mortar boats under Porter. Ben Butler was selected to command the troops. This expedition was also delayed in fitting out and did not sail until the beginning of the new year.

If the Federal army west of the Mississippi was in unorganized condition in the fall of 1861, army headquarters itself was still more so. General John C. Fremont held the chief command from July to November, and under his regime Wilson's Creek was fought and lost in August. General David Hunter succeeded Fremont Nov. 2 and a week later gave way to Halleck. At that time the principal Federal army lay at Holla, north of Springfield, in southern Missouri, confronted by the Confederates Sterling Price and Ben McCulloch, against whom the ill-starred Lyon had fought so gallantly at Wilson's Creek. Halleck changed the commanders of the force in front of Springfield twice within a week at the end of December, leaving it finally in the hands of General S. R. Curtis. Curtis immediately started southward toward Springfield and after weeks of toilsome winter marching brought the enemy to battle at Pea Ridge, just across the Arkansas border.

While the war on land waited for the muster and equipment of armies and the development of plans the whir of machinery and the din of anvil and hammer resounded in all the shipyards of both sections, getting ready for a struggle between ironclad vessels. The ram Merrimac was slowly and secretly growing into shape at Norfolk, and the pygmy which was to cut short her career was still a thing of paper plans and iron shreds and patches at Greenpoint, Long Island. The Ende fleet of paddle wheel ironclads, famous during the war as the "ninety day gunboats", on account of the haste in their construction, were under way GENERAL DON CARLOS BUELL, U. S. A.

GENERAL DON CARLOS
BUELL, U. S. A.

The Confederates, having few seagoing ships, fell back upon river boats for defense and turned their attention to the building of clumsy plated vessels from old hulks. The Louisiana and Mississippi were built on the lower Mississippi, the Arkansas and Tennessee at Memphis, the Atlanta at Savannah and the Palmetto State and Cleora at Charleston. Of all the Confederate ironclads begun in 1861 only the Merrimac and Arkansas became famous in battle, and of course the commerce destroyers Alabama and Shenandoah were yet unheard of at this time forty years ago.

Seek Relief!

The great proportion of women who suffer never make a serious effort to benefit themselves. The most of them go on paying no attention to their little menstrual disorders, believing they will eventually wear off. They grow worse and worse every day. At the period of menstruation a woman is peculiarly susceptible to cold and other external influences and it is also the most favorable time for the development of hidden disease germs which may be lurking in the system. Any physician knows that disordered menstruation, falling of the womb and leucorrhoea are blighting lives in almost every home. No woman should neglect herself a moment after the first indications of female diseases. Almost instant relief can be secured by the use of

Your Wine of Cardui has done a world of good for me. I have used five bottles of the Wine and one package of Theodor's Black Draught. And since I have started to use it I will not be without it in the house. It helped my sister in Toledo, who did not menstruate as she ought. She was sixteen years of age and nothing else helped her. I was in a very bad state myself before I used your medicine, but I found relief in three days. And now I feel like a new woman and do all my housework and washing, which I could not do before I took Wine of Cardui. I would be very glad to write any poor woman and tell her how I suffered before I used Wine of Cardui.

A Shark Story

Have I ever seen a shark? Ask my mate, him that's rowing that 'ere couple out yonder. We were shipmates together on board the Rajapootah Indian. His father, who is dead and gone this twenty years or more, was carpenter aboard of her.

Chips we used to call him, and if you don't mind listening to an old salt who's been round the world enough times to make a landman giddy at the very thought of it I'll just tell you of a little adventure we had with one of them man eating monsters.

Well, one day we were becalmed on the line when says young Bill—he was young—says he: "I shall have a swim round for a cooler," for, believe me, the sun was that hot we had to throw buckets of water on the deck to keep it from catching fire.

So in he goes, head first, with his clothes on, and me and his old man looked over the side just about the fore rigging to see him come to the top of the water again.

But no Bill could we see, and instead of him came up a tremendous shark with his side sticking out as if he had a cargo inside over and above his regular bill o' lading.

It was then as clear to us as the nose on our faces that poor Bill had dived clean down his throat.

The poor old man had a fit right away, and we carried him below and put him in his hammock and then ran up on deck again in the hope that we should be able to catch the fellow.

But it was nowhere to be seen, so after watching some time to no purpose we went down below to see how the old man was getting on, and to our astonishment and sorrow we found his body nearly cold and as stiff as the flying jibboom.

We sewed him up in his hammock, putting the grindstone that he used to grind his tools with inside to make it sink, and laid the body on a hatch with the union jack spread over it for a pall.

Then the skipper read the funeral service, all of us standing round.

As soon as the skipper had finished the last words, which I shall never forget—they were so solemn—the hatch was tipped up, and overboard the body went with a splash, and all was over—at least we thought so.

But almost immediately afterward up comes another shark—a bigger one, it seemed, than the first—certainly it was thicker.

The boatswain at once ran for the shark hook and baited it with a junk of pork and slung it over the stern, and it was not many minutes before we had him hooked and hauled on deck.

Well, the first thing we did was to cut his tail off, for he was slapping it about so that it shook the ship from stem to stern, and we were afraid it would shake her to pieces.

After we had done that we thought we heard a very strange noise inside of him—a sort of grating sound, like a boat being dragged over a shingly beach.

So we set to and cut off his head and then ripped him up, when, what d'you think, what should we see, to our great astonishment and delight, but Bill and his father sitting upright like two Joads, the youngster turning the grindstone and the old man sharpening his knife, intending to cut their way out of the creature's belly.

You say I said the old man was dead. Please don't interrupt me, and I'll tell you all about it.

There's no doubt but what he seemed dead, but it was only his blood froze with horror, and the shark warmed him to life again.

What made him most uncomfortable, Bill said, was the slitheriness and topey turviness of the place, for there was no rest at all, for one minute he was standing on his head and the next on his feet and then tossed from one side to the other, sometimes getting jammed between its ribs, and he wondered the meal didn't disagree with the fish itself.

But at last came the climax, and Bill thought it was all over with him, for down its throat was shot a heavy body like a sack of coals right atop of him, nearly smothering him, so that he had scarcely room to move or breathe, and he must have been some time insensible, he said, when he was woke up by a loud report.

He thought for a moment the creature had swallowed a powder barrel and it had exploded, but it was only the bursting of the canvas shroud the old man was sewed up in, which had blown up like a paper bag.

The noise in its inside, Bill said, must have astonished the shark, for he again found himself standing upon his head, so he knew it was making for the surface, and on reaching there it opened its enormous jaws for air, when a flood of light entered between the rows of teeth, which enabled Bill, on gaining his feet, to take stock of his belongings, and the very first thing that he saw was his old father crawling out from under the canvas like a chick from its shell.

The old man had caught sight of the grindstone and soon put it into working order, and on the fish once more coming to the top and again admitting light Bill at once saw what was in the wind, and they commenced business at once, when they were startled by a sudden change in the shark's movements, and soon they distinctly heard the sound of human voices, and they knew they were saved.

Well, we all was so thankful at their miraculous escape from the jaws of death that every mother's son of us on board took our solemn affidavits that we'd never tell a lie or anything of that kind again, and me and my mate have kept our words ever since.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Dyspeptics cannot regain health and strength by living upon half rations. They must eat plenty of good food and digest it. To enable them to do this they should use something that will help the stomach do its work. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is such a preparation. It digests what you eat and supplies the substances needed to build up the worn out digestive organs.

Prof. J. Iverson, of Lonaconing, Md., says: "For thirteen years I suffered agony from dyspepsia and neuralgia of the stomach. I tried almost everything and doctors drugged me nearly to death with morphine, but temporary relief was all I could obtain till I was advised to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. The first dose gave me relief. I bought my first bottle in March, 1900, and I have not had a single pain since. It has completely cured me. I cannot endorse it too highly."

MR. AND MRS. MYRON H. SOVERHILL; GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION

Surrounded by Their Children, Grand-Children and Other Relatives, the Venerable Couple Enjoyed a Happy Anniversary Last Evening.

Surrounded by their children, their grand children and other relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Myron H. Soverhill this afternoon celebrated their golden wedding at their spacious and pleasant home, 130 Washington street. It was a happy occasion and one whose memories will enrich forever the lives of all who enjoyed the privilege of sharing in the joys of anniversary celebration.

In honor of their happy completion of fifty years of wedded life, Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill entertained their relatives in this city and vicinity at a one o'clock dinner this afternoon. There were about fifty people in the company, all connected with the aged couple by the ties of kinship with the exception of their pastor, Rev. J. T. Henderson, his wife and her mother, Mrs. Bradford, of Chicago.

The home was handsomely decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, the great golden blossoms making an appropriate as well as a very artistic and effective decoration. A mammoth bunch of the golden beauties formed the central decoration at the bridal table at which the bride and groom and ten of the elder guests were seated. The rest of the company were seated at small tables.

The dinner was an elegant and elaborate feast, including all of the good things to eat which the hospitality of Mrs. Soverhill and her daughters could suggest. The daughters took entire charge of the dinner, it being their labor of love for their parents, whose kindly lives have always been a benediction to their devoted children. The divine blessing was invoked by the Rev. Henderson and then the guests devoted themselves to the joy of feasting.

A happy feature of the celebration was the presence of Miss Mary Soverhill, sister of the groom and William Sanford, eldest brother of the bride, both of whom were present when the host and hostess exchanged their marriage vows, fifty years ago. Both Miss Soverhill and Mr. Sanford make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill and they were quite the guests of honor today.

After dinner the afternoon was spent pleasantly in informal sociability, a most delightful feature of the afternoon being the playing by the Soverhill sisters' orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill are very proud of their talented grandchildren as they have good reason to be, and they felt themselves fortunate in being able to provide such delightful entertainment for their guests from their own family circle.

While only relatives were privileged to join in the family gathering and celebration, the congratulations and expressions of good wishes which Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill will receive on this happiest of anniversaries will come with sincerity from a large circle of friends who have found pleasure in knowing and esteeming them.

Both the bride and groom of fifty years are to well known in this city and throughout Rock county, where by integrity, honesty and true merit Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill have founded a family which the county is proud to consider one of its leading families, to need introduction to the public. While living a quiet and unostentatious life their influence has been widely felt and no one enjoys higher respect and confidence than Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill.

All through life this aged bride and groom have enjoyed the helpfulness of a mutual companionship. Born within a mile of each other in New York, Wayne county, N. Y., they grew up from childhood together and early formed the attachment which led them to the marriage altar in Newark, on November 16th, 1851 and has been a blessing and a comfort during the half century in which they have shared each other's burdens and joys until life for them has indeed been well worth living. Both Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill are bright, active and cheerful.

Mr. Soverhill is seventy-three years old, having been born July 14, 1828. His wife is two years younger and as Adelaide Sanford, first saw the light of day, Feb. 26th, 1830. In January, 1856, Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill came west settling on a farm between Edgerton and Fulton, and for forty-five years they have been vitally identified with the interests of Rock county. They made their home on the farm which they still own, for twenty-five years and Mr. Soverhill was one of the pioneer tobacco growers of Rock county. He planted and harvested one of the first crops in 1858. He purchased the first tobacco bought on commission in the state of Wisconsin at Edgerton in 1869, and later engaged in the buying of leaf tobacco and wool, in which business he is still actively interested. He has for many years been one of the representative men of Rock county and has done a large share towards its progress and advancement.

In 1881 Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill moved to this city where they have since resided, making their home for the past seventeen years. In the house in which they celebrated their golden wedding today, seven children were born to them and life's pathway has not been all sunshine for when their eldest son, Charles F., was sixteen years old, the promise of his young manhood was blighted for this world by death and several years later the fond parents were called on to mourn the death of their youngest daughter, Isadore, a bright child of five years.

One son and four daughters have survived to be the comfort of their old age, they being Sanford Soverhill, Minnie, wife of E. G. Tracy; Helen, wife of T. B. Earle, of Edgerton; Flora, wife of Beaumont De Forest, and Edith, wife of F. J. Mout. There are also eleven grandchildren, Cora, Laila, Edith and Wilma Soverhill, Helen and Myron Tracy, Allen and Kenneth Earle, Anna and Harry De Forest and Stuart Mount.

Among the guests from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Earle and family of Edgerton, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Allen and daughter Edna, of Fulton, and Mrs. Humphrey and Mrs. Kelly of Rockford.

Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill received many handsome gifts which they prize highly as souvenirs of their golden wedding. Their son and daughter presented them with a library table and a gold plated reading lamp and the grandchildren gave their grandfather a gold headed cane and their grandmother a pair of opera glasses. Many friends join with the relatives in the hope that Mr. and Mrs. Soverhill will be spared to enjoy life for many years to come and that many succeeding anniversaries will serve to call to mind the memories of today.

of the Episcopal church was read by Rev. A. H. Barrington, who spoke tender words of loving sympathy to the bereaved ones. At the close of the service, the remains were taken to Oak Hill cemetery and laid in their final resting place.

SCIENCE RESTORES SIGHT.

Three Blind People are Made to See Again.

Janesville is getting quite a reputation from a scientific standpoint in the surrounding country. Three difficult cases have lately been operated on at the Palmer hospital by Dr. J. P. Thorne, for cataract and all of them were taken from total or almost total blindness to sight. Mrs. Emma Waters of Whitewater returned home yesterday with restored vision after an operation and a three weeks' stay at the hospital. She was totally blind in one eye. The cataract was removed from this eye, and the sight is perfect. R. L. Day of Broadhead, one of the early settlers of Green county and a man of considerable note in that vicinity was operated successfully and was returned home. Mr. Day is seventy-two years of age and will be able to read a newspaper. He was totally blind when he came. Mrs. Elizabeth Christman of this city was operated on last week. She was blind in one eye and while she is not yet fully recovered, the case is far enough along to assure a successful ending. Mrs. Christman is sixty-seven years of age.

TIE IN THE HIGH SCHOOL GAME

It Was by Far the Best Exhibition of Football Seen in This City This Season.

Seniors, 0; All-Stars, 0. This was the result in figures of the football game which was played at Athletic park yesterday afternoon as the result of the challenge issued by the Senior class team to all the combined football forces of all the other classes in the High school. The score tells those versed in football lore that it was a hard contest, but the score does not tell the whole story. It was by far the best exhibition of football seen in this city this year and the game was a credit to players and to the school they represented.

The score would indicate that the teams were evenly matched but this was hardly true for the All-Stars had the best of it all through the game, the ball being in the Senior's territory almost all of the entire time. The first half closed with the ball only one and one-half yards from the Senior goal line. There were no spectacular plays during the game. It was hard, straight football from start to finish, made up of short and steady gains. The Seniors played largely on the defensive being forced to kick the ball frequently to keep their goal out of danger. Then the school team would force it back slowly but surely and the program would be repeated. Both lines were strong and each side was held for downs repeatedly.

The best individual playing for the All-Stars was done by Miltimore, whose line bucking was a feature of the game, and Nicholson and Wilbur who made terrific plunges through the tackles. Frank Holt, of the Senior team, distinguished himself for his hard and sure tackling.

The game was largely attended and there was a great deal of enthusiasm. The officials were Prof. William Norris, referee and umpire; Art. Ryan and Murdoch, timekeepers; Dee and O'Donnell, line men.

ABOUT 400 WENT TO MADISON

Janesville Well Represented at the Football Game Today

Janesville will be well represented at the Wisconsin-Minnesota football game today. About two hundred took advantage of the St. Paul excursion train which left at 9:45. Most of the excursionists were Wisconsin sympathizers. Many more visitors to Madison went up on the regular trains and the Northwestern excursion which left at one o'clock. It is safe to say that four hundred from this city witnessed the game.

Very little betting has been done around the city on the outcome of the game, the odds being slightly in favor of Minnesota. Those who took the Minnesota end of the bet were fighting on the extra weight in that team to carry them through. On the other hand it was conceded that Wisconsin had the fastest team and would make their play around the ends.

Among those who went from this city were T. W. Goldin, Dr. L. L. Leslie, Collin C. MacLean, F. S. Taggart and wife, John Baumann, George Dudley, W. A. Jackson, Charles Reynolds, H. W. McNamara, W. W. Watt, W. A. Johnson, Mr. F. D. Kimball and daughter, Ed Dermody, Jack Fletcher and numerous others.

The day was an ideal one for football and those who went to Madison had a right good time.

The regular 11:50 o'clock Chicago & Northwestern train which carries most of the football enthusiasts who went to Madison by the Northwestern road, was one of the best trains which ever passed through this city. Several of the officials were on the train which was composed almost entirely of private cars and parlor cars. About 125 Janesville people had the pleasure of riding to Madison on this beauty of a train. Comparatively few people waited for the C. & N. W. special which left this city at 1 o'clock.

SPECIAL UNION PRAYER SERVICE

Meeting Was Held in Observance Of The Week Of Prayer For A General Revival.

A special union prayer service was held at the Baptist church last evening and proved a very interesting and helpful service although for various reasons the attendance was not large. Only two of the pastors, Rev. Henderson of the Presbyterian church and Rev. R. C. Denison of the Congregational church were present. The others who had expected to aid in the service were unable to do so, Rev. R. M. Vaughan, of the Baptist church being seriously ill at his home, Rev. J. H. Tippet, of the Court street M. E. church, having so severe a cold that he dared not leave home and Rev. James Churn, of the First M. E. church being unavoidably detained by other pastoral duties.

The service was held in observance of the week of prayer for a general spiritual revival and this was the general topic from which both Rev. Denison and Rev. Henderson spoke briefly. Rev. Denison had a hard cold and found it difficult to speak but gave some helpful thoughts on the needs of the community for a spiritual revival.

Rev. Henderson followed Rev. Denison's line of thought by giving some of the reasons why Christian people so often fail to secure rich spiritual blessings for others.

Following the brief talks by the pastors there was a general experience meeting in which several of those present took part. J. C. Kline led the congregational singing.

MOURN DEATH OF ELIZABETH CHAPIN

Passed Away This Morning at Four O'clock—The Direct Cause Was Apoplexy—The Funeral.

Just as the shadows of night were yielding to the early dawn this morning, Mrs. Elizabeth Chapin, widow of the late Curtis Chapin, closed her eyes on the scenes of this world and opened them on eternal day, beyond death's river. Her death occurred at 4 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Stanley Jessup, 112 Pearl street. The direct cause was apoplexy, Mrs. Chapin being ill only a few days.

Deceased would have been seventy-four years old had she lived until the 30th of this month. She was born in Seeding Hills, Mass., and came to Rock county with her husband nearly half a century ago. They lived on a farm in the town of Fulton until twelve years ago when they came to this city to make their home with their daughter, Mrs. T. S. Jessup. Mrs. Chapin had won for herself the friendship of a large number of people during her residence here, and her death will be sincerely mourned. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. T. S. Jessup, with whom she resided, and Mrs. Ed. Jessup of Fulton.

Funeral services will be held from the home Monday morning, the hour not having been definitely settled upon yet. The remains will be taken to Fulton for interment.

John William Sheridan Dead.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheridan, 353 South Jackson street, rests under the shadow of the presence of death, their infant son, John William, having been gathered into the heavenly fold at 12 o'clock this noon. The little one was only seven months old but he was the joy and the pride of the household and his parents are grief-stricken over their great bereavement. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon, from the house at 2 o'clock and from St. Mary's church at 2:30 o'clock. The interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. Spaulding.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Lucy Maria Spaulding were held from her home on Milton avenue this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the funeral being strictly private. The beautiful service was a hopeless case after the second round.

JEFFRIES WINS THE BATTLE

Champion Pugilist Defeats Ruhlman in Fifth Round.

Champion Finds It Easy.

When seen in his dressing-room after the fight Champion Jeffries said: "I was certainly surprised at my easy victory and Ruhlman's amazing defeat. While it is true that he did not punch me hard enough during the five rounds to cause me any alarm, I believed him strong and cautious up to the moment of his collapse and was surprised when he quit. I certainly had no trouble in whipping him and had the fight gone on the result must have been the same. Ruhlman was inaccurate and in poor wind and I cannot say that he even had the courage and force that I expected to encounter in him. Ruhlman took a stiff punch in the stomach in the fourth round which I presume gave him trouble, nevertheless I expected him to lose harder than he did. Ruhlman can doubtless best explain his own position, and, as for myself, I am willing to meet Sharkey next month, and thereafter to defend as best I can the title I hold."

Ruhlman Talks of Foul.

When Ruhlman went to his dressing-room he was followed by a very depressed crowd. The defeated man complained of no pain and moved about without assistance. He said: "I believed from the tap of the gong that I would win, but as the fight progressed I was beaten down until I received a blow on the stomach which I must say was very low. It may not have been a foul and no living man could have survived it. Jeffries departed from the written rules and from the common regulations of boxing when he threw himself upon me and wrestled rather than sparred. I do believe that had I not received the stomach punch which ended me in the fifth round I would have worn down Jeffries a few rounds later and beaten him as a matter of endurance. I am ready to fight him again and believe that in time I will have the opportunity of showing that I can defeat him. That is all I can say."

Story of Contest by Rounds.

First Round—Jeffries started in with his head lowered and his left out. He followed Ruhlman around the ring, lighting several times heavily on Ruhlman's neck. Ruhlman countered cleverly and showed greater quickness. He landed twice with his left on Jeffries' breast.

Second Round—Jeffries began operations by planting his left on the wind. Jeffries followed this in a clinch with a heavy left-hand punch. Ruhlman appealed to the referee against this blow in the clinch, but the referee allowed it. Jeffries then followed his man around the ring. In a mix-up Gus landed a heavy left on Jeffries' nose. Jeffries continued crouching. He landed a right and left on Ruhlman's body. In a rally in his corner Gus caught Jeffries on the mouth, drawing blood, but in the mix-up that followed Jeffries had all the better of it, landing a clever left on Gus' neck.

Third Round—Ruhlman started in on the aggressive, trying to land right and left, but was cleverly stopped by Jeffries. Jeffries followed with a tremendous left on the neck, and followed this with a left hook on the jaw. Gus clinched in evident distress. Again Jeffries landed a powerful left on the heart and all Ruhlman could give in return were two ineffective blows on the face. Jeffries followed with both right and left on the breast. Both were heavy blows. Then Jeffries narrowly missed a swing on the jaw. Jeffries landed a powerful left on the jaw, too low to be decisive, and Ruhlman clinched to save punishment. The gong saved Gus from further distress.

Ruhlman Is Knocked Down.

Fourth Round—Jeffries, with head down, followed his man, and, taking several light blows on the face, landed two heavy lefts on Gus' heart, and followed this in a mix-up in a corner by a right over the heart. Jeffries, smiling like a boy, followed his man around, and, despite Ruhlman's frequent clinches, landed one heavy left over the heart. In a breakaway he hit Ruhlman hard on the cheek, and in the next clinch gave Gus a right and left uppercut. A series of uppercuts in a clinch brought Ruhlman to the carpet. He rose groggy, but the bell saved him. Ruhlman as he went to his corner showed traces of punishment, his left eye being closed by a glancing blow.

Claims Valuable Property.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 16.—Isaac Zane, a member of the Wyandotte tribe of Indians, whose home is at Wyandotte, I. T., is in Kansas City, Kas., in relation to a big claim of the tribe for lands on Lake Erie, near the city of Toledo. He has called a meeting of the members of the tribe Saturday to discuss the matter. According to the story of Mr. Zane, the land in question is a part of the old Ohio reservation of the tribe. It was originally a swamp and counted as worthless, but has been reclaimed and is now worth nearly $1,000,000. A lawyer from Fremont, O., named Burge, who married a Wyandotte woman, is pushing the claim, and he is now at the Wyandotte nation. There are 600 Wyandottes in the United States.

BOERS SURROUND BRITISH

Twenty-Two of the Yeomanry Killed or Wounded

AND SOME ARE CAPTURED

General De Wet Attacks Rear Guard of Hynd's Column—He Is Repulsed by the English After They Have Lost Fourteen.

London, Nov. 16.—Lord Kitchener, in the following dispatch from Pretoria to the war office, reports two encounters with the Boers, in one of which at least the British fared rather badly: "Colonel Hickey, whose column is covering the construction of the blockhouse line on the Schoonspruit, reports a concentration to the west. He sent out a strong patrol of yeomanry on Nov. 13 from Bakaput to reconnoiter. The patrol was surrounded by 300 Boers six miles from camp and six of our men were killed and sixteen wounded. Some who were captured have since been released. Colonel Hickey moved out to support the patrol and drove off the enemy. During the past week Elliott's column from Harrismith has been operating to the northeast of the Orange River Colony in conjunction with other columns converging from Standerton, Hellbron, Winberg, and Bethlehem toward the neighborhood of Reitz. The enemy were met in small parties. A few prisoners and much stock were captured. The rear guard of Hynd's column, which was escorting the captures, was attacked by the enemy, 400 strong, stated to be under De Wet. After two hours' fighting the attack was repulsed and the enemy retired, leaving eight dead. Our loss was Lieutenant Hughes and one man killed and three officers and nine men wounded."

Middelburg, Cape Colony, Nov. 16.—One hundred and eighty district mounted troops, composed largely of Dutchmen, with their arms and horses, surrendered to Smut's commando Oct. 13. The district troops fired most of their ammunition at long range, and then refused to fight further. Captain Thornton, their commander, believes the surrender to have been prearranged.

FEAR VESSELS ARE LOST

Storms Play Havoc with Shipping on Lakes.

MISS STEAMER AND CONSORT.

Big Steel Barge John Smeaton Is Thrown High on Beach—The Crew Is Forced to Abandon Disabled Schooner in Midlake.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 16.—The propeller Thomas Davidson and consort Aberdeen, coal laden from Buffalo for Milwaukee, are missing and fear is felt for their safety. The vessels passed the Straits of Mackinac on Monday afternoon and should have reached Milwaukee on Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest. Henry J. Pauly of Milwaukee, who owns the vessels, says he has heard nothing from them since passing the straits.

Big Barge Thrown High on Beach.

Au Train, Mich., Nov. 16.—High on a sandstone beach in scarcely more than five feet of water the big steel barge John Smeaton lies to the east of Rock river and about six miles northeast of this point. In the terrific gale that has been raging for forty-eight hours the Smeaton was driven out of her course and thrown broadside on this bed of rocks. The life-saving crew from Marquette went to the scene of the wreck by a special train today. Communication was easily had with the crew, which was safe on board and able to reach the shore at any time, as the small boats escaped injury in the storm.

Dangerous Ships Make Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 16.—Vessels arriving here from Lake Huron report that the storm on Lake Huron was the worst of the season. The steamer Iron King, with her consort, the Iron Queen, with ore from Escanaba, left Thunder Bay at 6 o'clock Friday morning and battled with the north-west gale until Port Huron was reached. Oil was used on the Iron King to quell the waves, which deluged the boat and froze on the decks. Three men were required to hold the steering wheel on the Iron Queen.

Teachers as Editors.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The Chicago Teachers' Federation, an eight-page weekly, devoted to the interests of the 6,000 public school teachers, has made its first appearance. The introductory editorial, said to be from the pen of Miss Catherine Goggin, a Chicago teacher, sets out its wider scope as follows: "The new education, which aims to bring the schools and the people more closely together, thus making them a power in the community of the day, and this new movement can be greatly accelerated by the intelligent co-operation of that great educative body, the public school teachers."

Cavanaugh Far in the Lead.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 16.—Cavanaugh has a good lead in the six-day go-as-you-please race, and as he appears as fresh as he did at the start he will probably finish first. He has had but five hours' rest since the start on Monday morning. The interest is increasing and the attendance is large. The scores of the leaders at noon were: Cavanaugh, 405.6; Barnes, 364.16; Shelton, 351.15; Dean, 347.11.

Great Cruise Planned.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The winter cruise of the North Atlantic squadron, which begins on the 25th of this month, will be a notable one, for the vessels of the squadron will stop at Charleston for four days during the exposition, and visit Cuba, Porto Rico, the Isthmus of Panama, Colombia, Trinidad Island, on the northeast coast of Venezuela, and the Danish West Indies.

Most Damaged by Fire.

Sutton's Bay, Mich., Nov. 16.—The schooner Alice of Kenosha, in command of Capt. Hansen, lost canvas, rigging, rail, and suffered other damage by fire in the burning of the Bahles warehouse and dock. The burning schooner was set adrift and finally stranded on a sandy bottom. The cargo of potatoes is uninjured. Loss on warehouse and contents, $10,000.

W. C. T. U. in Session.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 16.—The 28th annual convention of the W. C. T. U. opened here at 10:30 o'clock, with a fairly large attendance of delegates. The meetings are being held in the Baptist church. The hotels and homes of Fort Worth are taxed to their utmost to entertain the delegates.

Ravages of Prairie Dogs.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 16.—Statistics from official sources show that prairie dogs occupy and render worthless, or nearly so, for agricultural purposes, 1,224,854 acres of land in Kansas. All efforts to exterminate the dogs have failed, even with the co-operation of the department of agriculture.

William McMillan Dead.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—William McMillan, president of the American Car and Foundry Company, died here, aged 60 years, as the result of pneumonia. He was born in Hamilton, Ont., and was a brother of United States Senator James McMillan of Michigan.

McKinley's Cousin Cleared.

Guthrie, O. T., Nov. 16.—Major Fred E. McKinley, a cousin of the late President, has been exonerated by the Interior Department on charges of misconduct filed against him as receiver of the government land office here.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

The latest addition to the list of American actresses who have developed business acumen are the names of Mabel and Ethel Strickland, who have this season entered the ranks at the head of their own company, "not stars, you understand," they will assure you just merely in an independent position together. The play is "For Love's Sake," a very strong story of German American interest. In remembering the success of Darkest Russia, Woman in Black and other plays by the same author, one may naturally look for a winner. Both women are distinctly clever, and have from their continued association with our leading stars, and under our finest stage directors, become proficient in the most refined and successful method of acting. They will appear at the Myers Grand on Monday evening, Nov. 18.

Lewis Morrison's superb new scenic production of "Faust," said to surpass all previous productions of this well known play, will soon appear in this city.

Miss Amelia Bingham's production of "The Climbers" employs an extraordinary number of properties. Under this head are classified all the portable articles required to complete the stage setting. There are 145 in the first act. The Christmas tree and dinner episode of the second act necessitate 434. The third act, an outdoor scene, utilizes only thirty-seven, but the fourth act, which takes place in the library of the Sterling household, calls for 364 articles. The total, 980, is record breaking and affords apt illustration of the careful attention to detail to be observed in the production of a drama, which reflects scenes of social life.

Twenty Texas Farms Burned Out. Dallas, Texas, Nov. 16.—Fire at Wortham destroyed eight business buildings, burning out nearly twenty farms. The postoffice was among the buildings burned. The loss approximates $30,000.

Roosevelt Sends for Law.

New York, Nov. 16.—Mayor-elect Seth Low went to Washington at the invitation of President Roosevelt, and will be a guest at the White House during his stay there.

Heavy Frost in Texas.

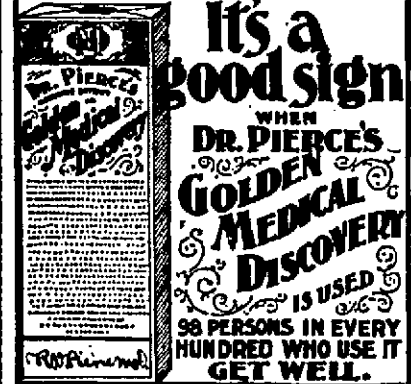

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 18.—There was a killing frost over northern and central Texas. The indications are that it precludes further growth of the top crop of cotton.

Newkirk Is in Flames.

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 16.—Newkirk, the county seat of Kay county, Oklahoma, is burning. Two blocks are already wiped out.

When you have that obstinate lingering cough which will not be shaken off, "I have used three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery since my correspondence with you," writes Mr. A. P. Novotny, of New York, N. Y., (Box 1437). "I feel that I am in need of no more medical assistance. When I started to take your medicine I had a regular consumptive cough of which I was afraid, and everybody cautioned and warned me concerning it. I was losing weight rapidly, was very pale and had no appetite whatever. Now my condition is changed entirely. I do not cough at all, have gained eight pounds in weight, have recovered my healthy color, and my appetite is enormous."

WHITE RIBBONERS MEET IN TEXAS

Twenty-Eighth Annual National Convention of the W. C. T. U. in Session at Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 16.—Delegates from every state in the union from Cuba, Great Britain, Switzerland, Mexico and Hawaii were present, this morning when the twenty-eighth annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union opened in the First Baptist church at 9 o'clock.

President Lillian M. N. Stevens of Maine presided, and after the customary greetings and preliminary exercises she delivered her annual address.

The corresponding secretary's report showed that literature to the amount of 5,000,000 pages has been distributed this year, and that the correspondence has included Cuba,
Porto Rico, Mexico and Hawaii.

Nineteen states have received assistance from the Frances Willard fund. The treasurer's report shows expenses to be $3,000 less than ten years ago while the results obtained are incomparably greater. Receipts for the year 1900 were $24,452, with expenses of $23,916.

Yale-Princeton Game
New Haven, Nov. 16.—It was great football weather that greeted thousands of football enthusiasts who made this city their Mecca today to watch the annual struggle for supremacy be-and every train brought many visitors. The Yale men are full of confidence, while the Princeton are quiet and hopeful. The exodus from the city to the field began before noon.
